LifeCell Wrinkle Cream – Freeze Time While Regenerating Your Skin

LifeCell Wrinkle Cream – Freeze Time While Regenerating Your Skin

South Beach Skin Care has introduced a new anti wrinkle cream called LifeCell wrinkle cream. It claims to be able to freeze time while allows your skin to regenerate. Dr. Raj Bhayani a cosmetic surgeon has endorsed the product stating that it has replaced Botox injections for many of his past clients.

Michelle Bell who used to be a director of a modeling agency also endorses the product stating that is can get rid of fine lines and improve the elasticity of the skin. Can this product really add up to these claims though?

Ingredients

There are two primary ingredients within the LifeCell cream, and they are Nitric Oxide and Idebenone. These two ingredients are responsible for the great majority of the results that are produced by the cream.

Nitric Oxide – This substance increases blood flow, and in doing so it also helps to repair capillaries and shrink them so that they are not so prominent on the surface of the skin. This decreases the swollen puffy appearance of skin, especially around the eyes and nose.

Idebenone – Is a common antioxidant substance that is also found in most other anti-wrinkle creams on the market. It helps to repair damage done to the skin while getting rid of harmful substances left behind.

While there is not a full list of ingredients available, other ingredients that are found within the LifeCell cream include:

- Pentanoic Acid
- Deanol
- Acetyl Hexapeptide
- Dithiolane

Advantages

There a few good benefits of using LifeCell cream. It is easy to apply and use, as it is only one cream, and it should just be dabbed onto the skin once per day. It also comes with a money back guarantee if you are not satisfied with the results. Ordering is easily and securely done over the Internet, and you are sure to see some results, although they may not be exactly what you expected.

Disadvantages

This is a pricey solution, and costs more than other creams on the market. There is not a full list of ingredients for you to view and ensure that there would be no allergic reactions, and there are not medical results that prove this product does in fact work the way it says. This solution appears to be more for fine lines only, and may not help those with deep wrinkles or excessive sagging.

Cost

LifeCell anti wrinkle cream can be purchased online for $189, which provides you with a 40 day supply. Although the initial cost of the cream is more expensive than others on the market, when you consider that it can give you a month and a half worth of treatment, it may break even with other treatments. Still, there are other products that may offer the same benefits at lower prices.

Who Would Benefit Most From This Product?

Anyone with fine lines only would benefit most from this product, as it appears to primarily treat only fine lines and uneven skin pigmentation. If you have deep wrinkles, you may also find this product useful in minimizing them at a cost that is cheaper than more drastic methods that could cause damage to your skin or body.

The LifeCell cream is certainly a viable option for those who want an alternative to surgeries and laser treatments. However, just how good the results are remains to be seen. It does have the backing of two prominent professionals, but whether that is enough to justify the higher costs is up to you.
